BELMONT SERIES

USED, AGED, SHABBY CHIQUE, VINTAGE, RE-USED,...

The used-look trend is about to take off all over Europe. If you take fashion, stone washed jeans with holes are well established must-haves nowadays. The same trend is picked up now in furniture as well. Established modern surfaces are no longer patina-like, don't tell stories. No stories about quality and resistance, about age and the beauty in daily use. We are about to change that!

The charm of used look: Partially abraded, scratched, turned grey due to light and use. The charm of authenticity, traces of age and resistance.

The idea for the Belmonts series was inspired by old floor tiles from a church in Belgium. Just by looking at the designs, irrespective of direction, you can imagine that those tiles have been in place for a very long time and have changed their looks while aging year after year.

People start to think when they look at this extraordinary design. Think about all the memories that come to mind, all the stories. Sweeping away already? The look is not man-made, it is random and underlines the beauty of nature. Plus, it brings out something wonderful in us: Imagination!
